

GStreamer Conference 2013 Sponsor Brief

October 22nd and October 23rd, 2013
Edinburgh International Conference Center (EICC)
Edinburgh, Scotland, UK

The GStreamer Conference is an annual conference covering topics related to the GStreamer multimedia framework and related Open Source multimedia technologies. It is the premier conference to learn about latest advances in Open Source multimedia for the desktop, server and embedded world on Linux and Android but also Windows, OS X, iOS and other platforms.

For the fourth year the conference is back in Europe, with the last year being in San Diego in the US. The first three years were great successes with hundreds of professional and hobbyist attendees and many interesting talks and other events. Co-hosted alongside the Embedded Linux Conference Europe, LinuxCon Europe, the Automotive Linux Summit and the Linux Kernel Summit this is a premier chance to advertise your company to decision makers and engineers working on Open Source based multimedia devices and applications.
